Please join Mr. Huyshe Bower of Taylor Fladgate Port as he takes you through the fascinating history and tradition of Port wine, and Taylor's role and significance as the very first wine growers in the Douro Valley.

Mr. Bower, Partner and Vice-Chairman of Taylor Fladgate & Yeatman, joined the firm in 1953. A sixth generation descendant of the original Morgan Yeatman of Dorset, he was initially responsible for production. In 1967 he was appointed Director of Sales and has to his credit the presence of Taylor Fladgate Port in every major market in the world.

The tasting will centre on the newly released 2003 Vintage Ports from Taylor Fladgate, Croft and Delaforce. 2003 was an exceptional year in the Douro Valley, bringing together many of the factors which distinguish the great vintage years. James Suckling of the Wine Spectator stated "samples of the young wines show the latest declared year to be outstanding."

We will follow with an aged Vintage Port from one of the three port houses, demonstrating the longevity of these particular wines and the elegance and complexity of bottle aged port.
